

Announcing the

MAHLE Clevite 2007 Machinist of the Year Award Competition

The MAHLE Clevite Machinist of the Year Award is an annual nationwide award program that serves to recognize an ASE-certified automotive engine machinist who is judged to be outstanding for his skills and contributions to the industry and his local community. MAHLE Clevite will announce the winner during the fall AERA Tech and Skills Regional Conference, which will be hosted by MAHLE Clevite at the University of Northwest Ohio in Lima, Ohio, on November 10.

WIN GREAT PRIZES

MAHLE Clevite will present the award winner with a fabulous prize package. It includes an all-expense-paid trip for two to the Performance Racing Industry (PRI) Show in Orlando, Florida (Dec. 6 - 8); $500 spending money; VIP Tour of NASCAR® Technical Institute; and a one-day on track Jeff Gordon Racing School Driving Experience at Lowe's Motor Speedway in Charlotte, NC. Plus, a Day on the Dyno with Pro Motor Engine's Dennis Borem and Darrell Hoffman —the winners of the 2007 MAHLE Clevite Engine Builder Showdown. Pro Motor is a leading builder of automotive race engines for the NASCAR® NEXTEL® Cup Series. The MAHLE Clevite Machinist of the Year will spend a day with Borem and Hoffman, learning some of their engine building secrets.

HOW TO ENTER

All machinists who have passed at least one of the three ASE machinist certification tests are eligible to enter the 2007 MAHLE Clevite Machinist of the Year award competition. To enter, complete the on-line nomination form no later than October 31, 2007. Click here to complete the form.

NOMINATE A MACHINIST YOU KNOW FOR A CHANCE TO WIN $250

Do you know an ASE-certified automotive engine machinist who also deserves a chance to be named the 2007 MAHLE Clevite Machinist of the Year? Well, then, we invite you to nominate that person for the award as well. If the machinist you've nominated wins the award, you'll win $250.
